Program Overview

Introduction

What is the Step Up program?

- Clark County Social Service (CCSS) has operated the Step Up program through a collaborative agreement with Family Services (DFS) since 2010.
- Step Up is a Young Adult Program for youth who have “aged out” of foster care in Nevada. The goal is to assist these youth in making the transition from foster care to economic self-sufficiency (i.e. to prevent homelessness upon exiting care).
- To qualify, youth need to have turned 18 years old while in foster care in Nevada. Young adults can participate until age 21.
- Step Up is a voluntary program for young adults.

Introduction

What is the difference between DFS and CCSS?

- Clark County Department of Family Services (DFS) is the local public agency whose role is to help keep children safe. Mission: Protecting children from abuse and neglect by partnering with our community to build safe, nurturing and stable families, to support family preservation when possible, to provide permanent families for those children who cannot safely return home and to ensure the well-being of children in our care.

Services: Adoptions, Case Management, Child Abuse Hotline, Child Protection (CPS), Foster Home Licensing, Independent Living, Interstate Compact (ICPC), Parenting Project

- Clark County Social Service (CCSS) provides a variety of services for needy residents of Clark County who are not assisted by other state, federal or local programs. Social Service provides “aid and relief to the indigent.” Mission: Provide a safety net of human services to a growing community.

Services: Case Management, Coordinated Intake, Cremation/Burial, Financial/Transportation Assistance, Homemaker Services, Long Term Care, Medical Outreach, Senior Services, Step Up

Aged-Out Foster Youth: Challenges

*For youth aging-out, the transition to adulthood presents a number of challenges in meeting their basic needs. These are challenges that we work to address with the young adult, and they can include:

- *Unstable housing or at-risk of homelessness
- *Lack of adequate elementary and secondary education
- *Lack of employment and job training
- *Problems with physical health, behavioral health, and general well-being
- *Lack of social connections

Nationwide Statistics

*Approximately 415,000 children and youth are in foster care.

*While the majority (51%) of the approximately 238,000 children who exited foster care across the country were reunified, 9%, or approximately 22,000 youth, “aged-out” of the system.

History of the Step Up Program

The Step Up program began with the passing of Assembly Bill 94 during the 2001 Nevada State Legislative session. For the first few years this “FAFFY” account was “built up” by collecting a $1 fee attached to documents that are recorded from County offices across Nevada. In 2003 a non-profit was contracted to begin the Step Up FAFFY program.

In Southern Nevada, the Nevada Partnership for Homeless Youth (NPHY) was initially contracted by the Clark County Department of Family Services to spend the funds from the account to assist persons formerly in foster care in March of 2003. NPHY ceased operating the Step Up program in June of 2005.

The Step Up program was then contracted again to a different non-profit organization, Child Focus, in July of 2005. Child Focus ceased operating the Step Up program in August 2010.

Clark County Social Service then assumed operation of the Step Up program in September of 2010 and the memorandum of understanding between DFS and CCSS is in effect today (renewed every three years).

History of the Step Up Program

The CCSS Step Up program operated originally from CCSS Pinto office and soon moved to the Ryan White Foundation office for several years.

In September of 2015, CCSS Step Up moved into it's own new youth-oriented drop-in center located near Rancho/Charleston.

In September of 2016, Step Up formally expanded to its second program, called the Voluntary Court Jurisdiction (VOL JUR) Independent Living Program. This program was formerly housed at the Department of Family Services since it was enacted in NRS in 2012.

In March of 2016, Step Up was awarded a grant, called the Homeless Prevention for Transition Age Youth (HPFTAY) emergency assistance program. This program concluded March of 2018 with 80% of participants in stable housing (homelessness prevented). As of March 2019, a similar emergency assistance program called Low Income Housing Trust Funds (LIHTF-TAY) started that provides short term move-in and rental assistance for aged-out foster youth 18 to 25.

Drop-In Resource Center

- * The drop-in center opened September 2015.
- * The center is centrally located in Las Vegas (near Charleston/Rancho) and is close to a main bus route.
- * The center features an open kitchen with snacks, several resource cabinets (hygiene, school supply, parenting supply), resource boards (medical, education, employment, legal, events, etc.), and computers with internet access that are open for the youth to use and print from.
- * The Step Up drop-in center caters specifically to the aged-out former foster youth population. 30 Day CFT's (prior to aging out) are held here.
